Steps . . .

Dotting the High Point College campus from the new Horace Haworth Hall of Science, the first tangible result of the Golden Decade Development Program, to Roberts Hall, one of the College's original buildings, are steps, steps, and more steps. Just as these steps are symbols of the College's physical progress from its beginnings in 1924 to its present efforts in 1968 so are they symbols of the individual student's inner academic, social, and spiritual progress.

The physical plant of High Point College provides the atmosphere for growth in its students from orientation through graduation as they are molded by scholarship and fellowship. The process of maturing and learning is a never-ending one with new steps to be conquered throughout life, but those steps up to the platform to receive that college diploma will be remembered as some of the most significant steps ever taken.

New edifices embellished the old on the campus this year as the College made strides toward improvements in facilities. The dedications of Horace Haworth Hall of Science and Dennis H. Cooke Hall, formerly used as the science building, on October 28, 1967, marked the expansion of academic facilities at High Point College. Construction of a new dormitory and an infirmary for the 1968-1969 academic year was begun this year and illustrated the College's continuing interest in improving conditions for its students on campus.

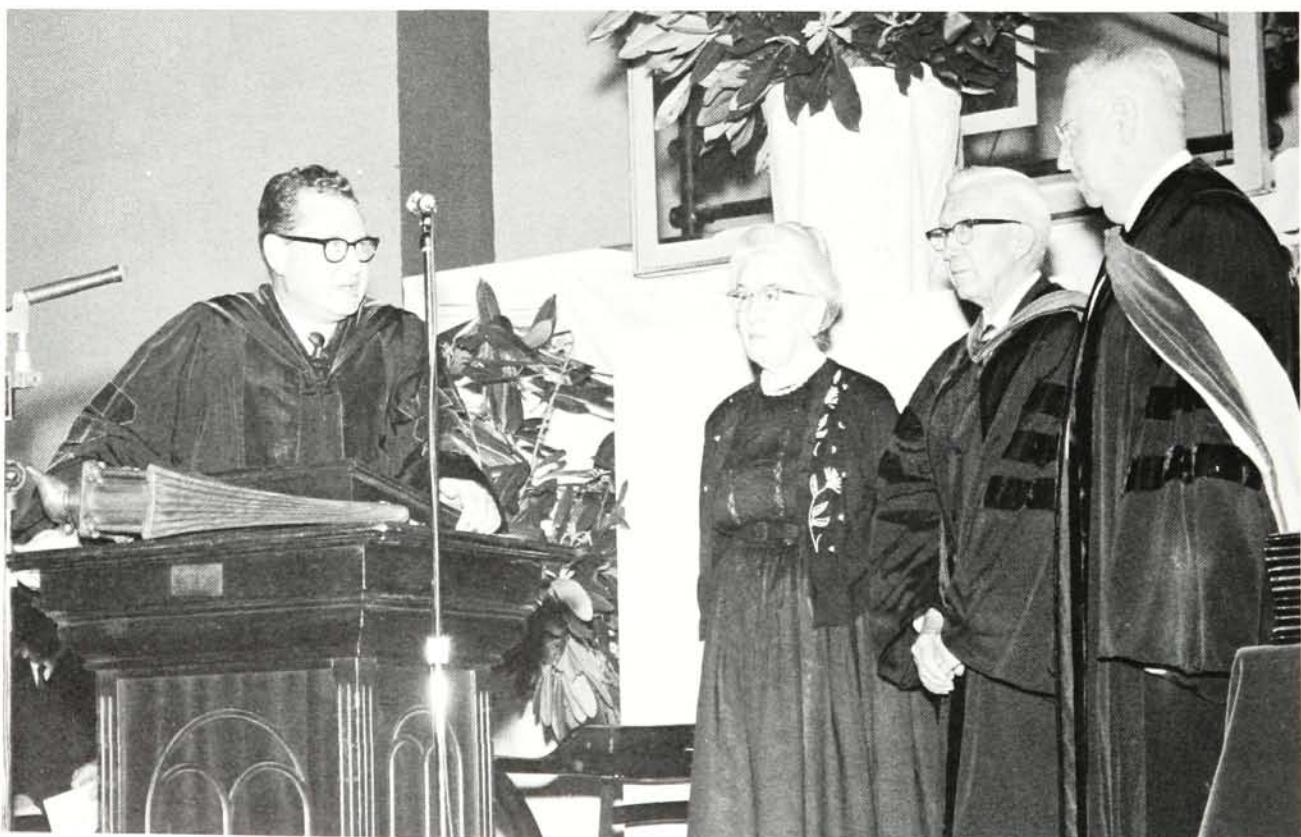

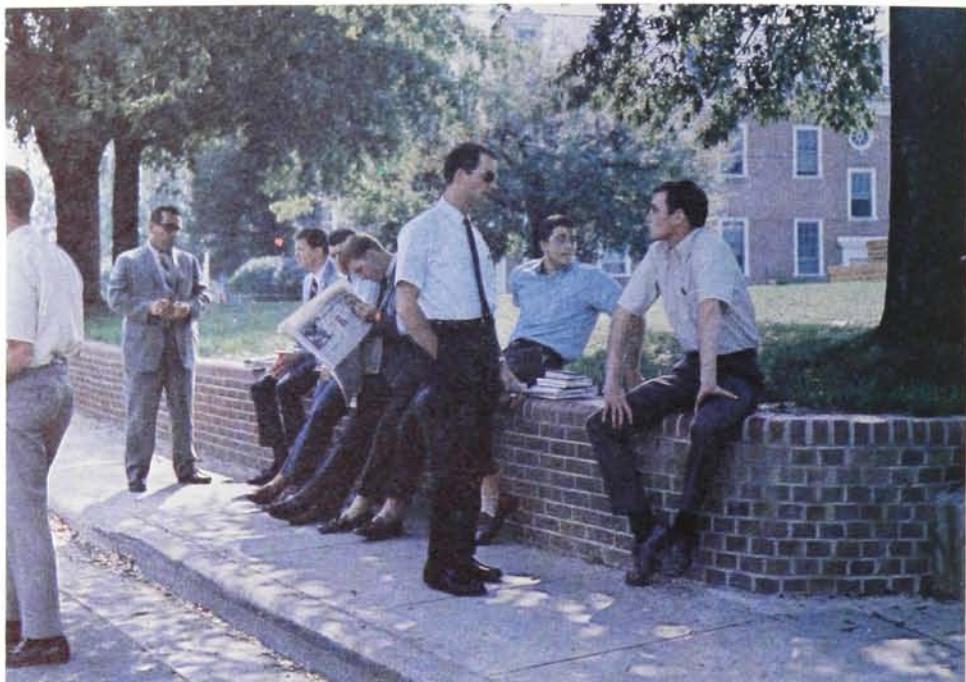

Other physical changes that gave the campus a new appearance during this year included an outdoor basketball court behind the Student Center, a brick wall around a portion of Harrison Hall, and a new victory bell tower presented as a gift to the school by the 1967 graduating class. In the course of the year, the College provided many new byways, hallways, and stairways for student travel, and the erection of a temporary barbed wire fence in place of an often "unnoticed" keep-off-the-grass sign suggested the administration's desire for these designated walkways to be used more consistently.

Buildings Are the Foundation

Education Makes New Strides

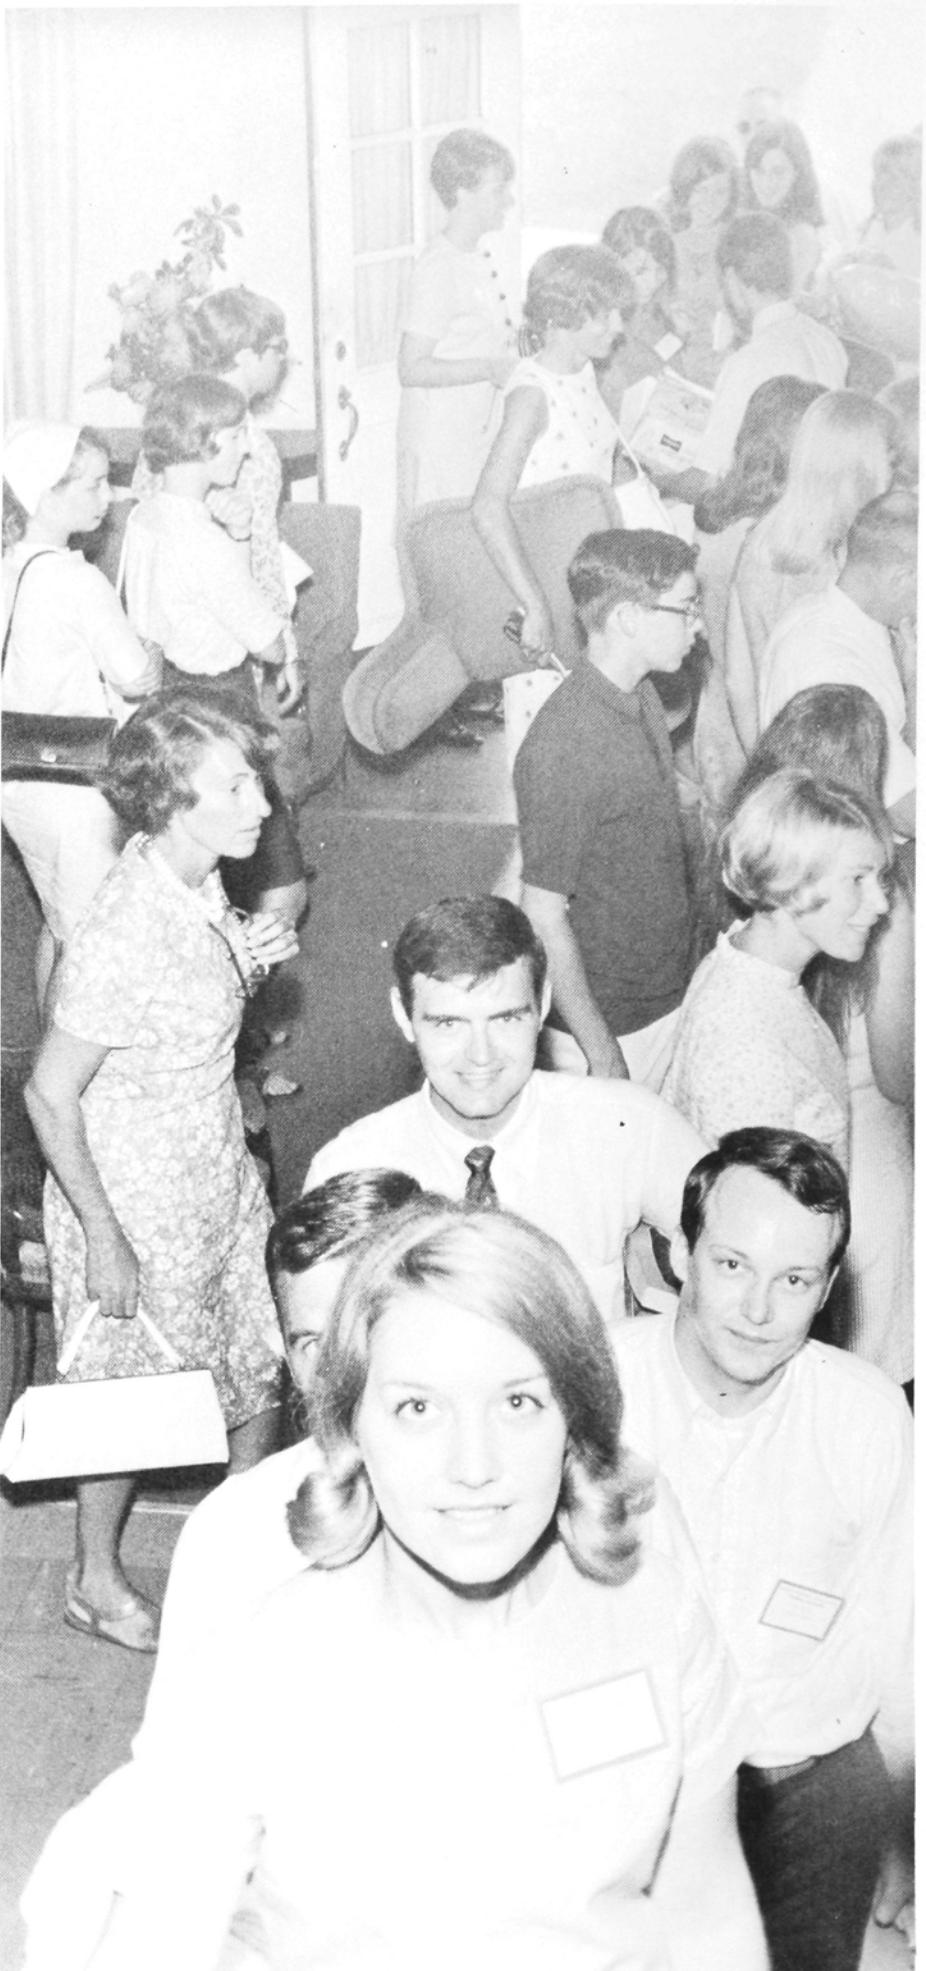

Members of the faculty of High Point College have previously taken the same steps that their students are taking now. They have taken it upon themselves to impart the knowledge they have acquired to their students. Development of all the capabilities of each student is a primary purpose of the liberal arts curriculum of the College, and the faculty accomplishes this purpose.

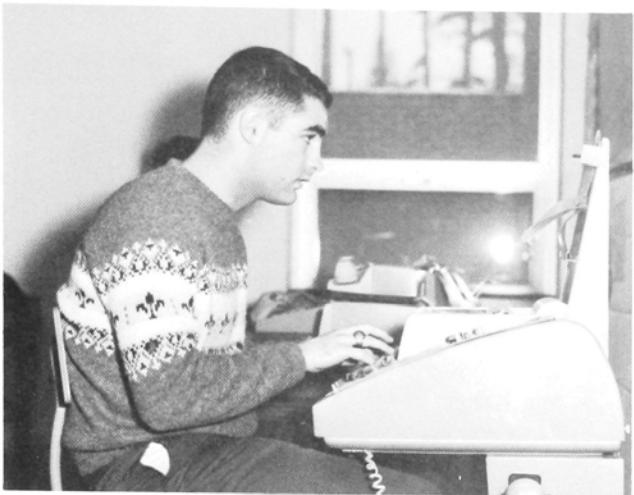

Keeping up with new developments in each particular area of study is a task that each professor must perform. Preparation for each class meeting on the part of the professors insures a better education for the student and shows a method for continued learning for the professor.

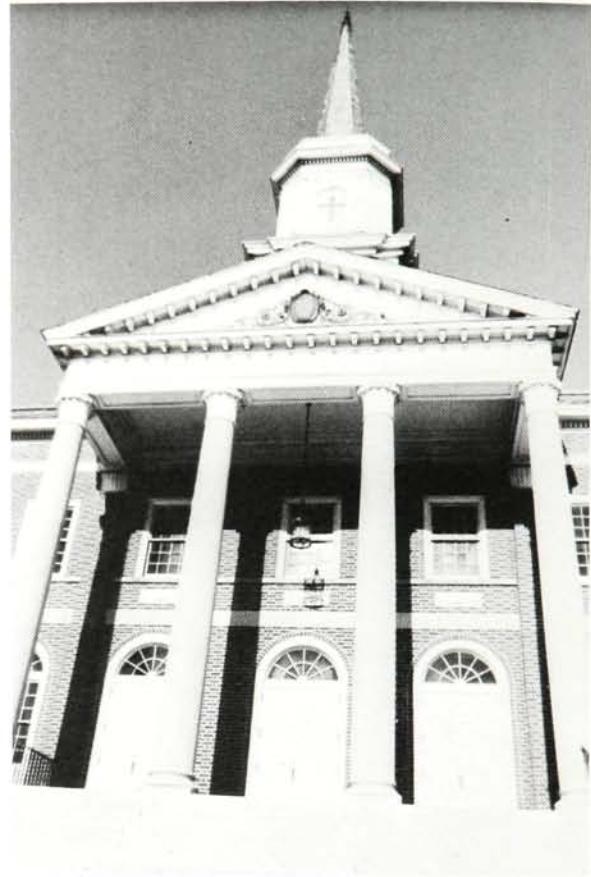

Activities Promote Momentum

Stepping through his academic career, the High Point College student attends classes in which he takes notes, studies for tests by trying to decipher those notes, crams for final exams, and is either exhilarated or disappointed when grades are posted. However, there always seems to be plenty of time left over for dates, mail, school spirit, and going away for those special weekends. The interests of college students take off in many directions.

Attitudes Prompt Service

As a student moves through the four years of his college life, some change almost inevitably occurs in his attitudes toward religion and life. His religious faith is usually either strengthened or weakened by virtue of his separation from home influence. Church attendance becomes a matter of personal choice, and decisions of right and wrong in outward conduct are made through inward searching. Old concepts are challenged by an association with new acquaintances with new ideas about life, requiring a re-examination of self and society on the part of each student.

Affiliated with the Methodist Church, High Point College encourages student participation in religious activities through various religious and service organizations and the annual Religion-In-Life Week. In addition to the sparsely attended nightly devotions in Lindley Chapel, students are provided with transportation to and from Sunday morning worship services by several local churches. Involvement in religious activities on campus range from a complete aloofness on the part of some to a complete seriousness on the part of others.

We Dedicate the 1968 Zenith to . . .

As the student steps forward through his academic career, a few people make lasting impressions on him and his life. In 1961, High Point College added one such person to its faculty. Her continuing influence on a significant part of the student body has earned her the label "teacher" in the truest sense of the term.

No student who has ever sat in one of her classes can doubt her thorough preparation and presentation of study materials in literature, and no one who has ever taken one of her tests can forget the pain of writer's cramp. In some unaccountable way, however, her courses always seem to be spiced with anecdotes about William Faulkner — even in a course about Chaucer!

An influential professor's efforts for her students should not go unnoted. Therefore, because of the deep impressions made by her prolific knowledge of literature, her contagious enthusiasm in the classroom, and her sincere interest in the welfare of each student, it is with pleasure and gratitude that we dedicate this yearbook to Mrs. Emily B. Sullivan, Assistant Professor of English.

Mrs. Emily B. Sullivan

At any college, each year is highlighted by special events which are awaited with anxious anticipation and remembered for many years to come. High Point College is no exception. These special moments comprise a minority of the days in the year but a majority of the memories in the future.

Orientation presented the freshmen with their initial view of college life while the Homecoming festivities provided another look at High Point College for the alumni. Students' cultural interests were satisfied by concerts and assembly programs. A new innovation this year was collaboration between the High Point Jaycees and the SGA in the production of the Miss High Point-Miss Foden Decade Pageant.

Freshmen Step Into New Adventures

FRESHMAN ORIENTATION

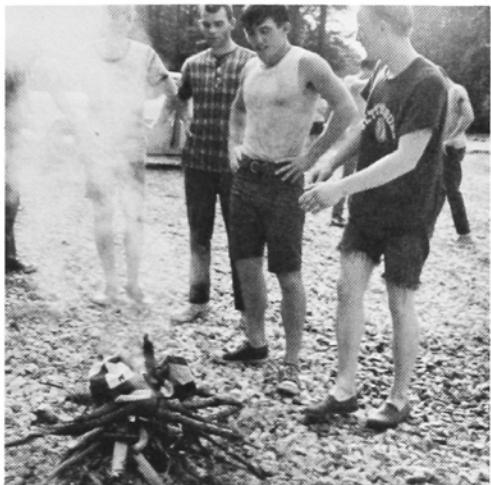

At last the day had arrived and the campus of High Point College was filled with new freshmen. The first hectic day included a route from line to line. Presented name tag and room key, the new freshman was shipped through a registering line into the strangeness of a dormitory home. The initiatory lines were followed by a more pleasant one—a line for punch. Lines or no lines the freshmen somehow survived for the most important aspect of all—meeting new people.

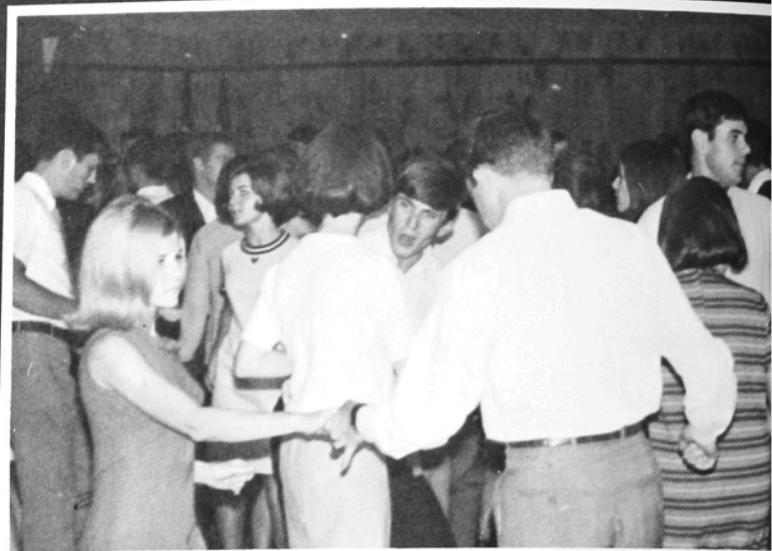

Lagging Lines, Crowded Cookouts,

Bondage In Beanies

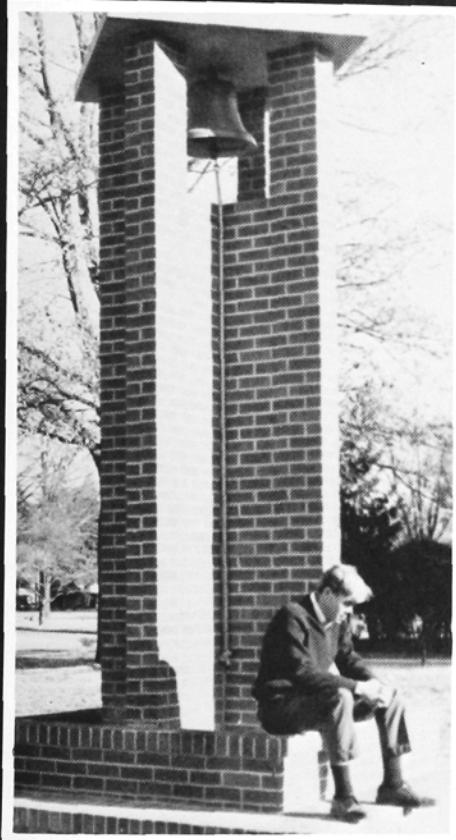

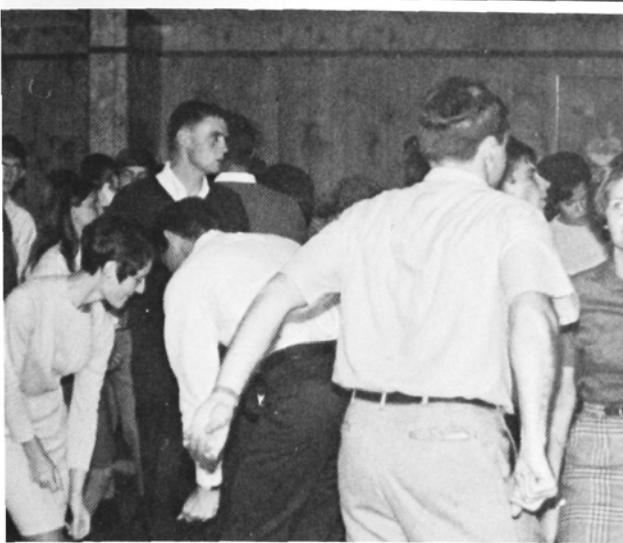

Days flew by at a fast pace during the orientation period. Freshmen will never forget the hours spent during this time in activities like: dancing, testing, picnicking, and meeting the faculty at a reception. Other vital events during the first few weeks were the beanie capping ceremony, the beanie tickets and fines, the tug-of-war, the beanie burning bonfire afterwards, and learning how to get to lunch on time. Freshman Orientation was made up of these events, and for the freshmen it was a period of adjustment to a new way of life.

Not only are the four years of college a time for development of the mind, but they are also years for development of individual personality, maturity, and independence. Students learn a new respect for and understanding of others. Social and service fraternities and sororities provide an atmosphere conducive to the development of these qualities.

Students entertain themselves with anything from Sunday night movies to concerts by popular recording artists. This year Glenn Yarborough, Leonda, and the Platters electrified High Point College audiences with exceptional professional artistry. Rarely does the student neglect this important social aspect of his college experience.

Lambda Chi Alpha

The Lambda Chi Alpha Fraternity continued this year with its dynamic program of Fraternalism. The brothers and pledges strived for the top in all areas: scholastic achievement, sports, and social activities.

The Fraternity started out its year on the right foot by pledging fourteen outstanding men. With this addition the Lambda Chi's built even stronger their brotherhood and fellowship.

Keeping up the Lambda Chi tradition of public mindedness, the Fraternity held many projects including washing of school cars, helping with the United Appeal, Mills Home Orphanage, Christmas and Easter parties, just to name a few.

Of course the year was enlightened by the Lambda Chi social events. Rememberable events such as the Drag Rush dance, stag party, H. A. Costume Ball, combo parties, the outstanding White Rose Formal and the annual Beach Party.

All Lambda Chi's can look back on a year of hard work and hard play; a year of reward, and a year of great Fraternalism.

Alpha Delta Theta

"Alpha Delta Theta . . . We will rejoice in Christian fellowship." Now at the end of another year, our bond of fellowship, made up of sisterhood and Christian service, has been strengthened by nine months of fun, work, and worship together. From orientation until graduation we were busy taking advantage of the opportunities that our sorority offered.

Our pledges brought new life and new activities into the group. Getting to know each individually . . . secretly delivering "happies" . . . the visit to the Thomasville orphanage . . . the project and program for the sisters . . . initiation . . . until—sisters forever!

We strived to live up to our role as a service sorority by taking part in service activities on campus. Returning trays from the infirmary to the cafeteria, straightening the clubrooms on Sunday, and helping serve refreshments at the faculty meetings were small, but helpful services for the college.

In February we got into the spirit of Valentine-giving by having Heart Sisters. Surprises and little gifts say "I love you, Sister" in such a fun-filled, exciting way. Each Wednesday night we held devotions in the dorm. This special time of meditation united us spiritually as truly "Sisters in the Service of God."

The two big highlights of the year were our fall and spring retreats at Millbrook Farm. These were two memorable weekends of fellowship—everything from a spaghetti supper to a violent pillow fight. The buildings, the natural surroundings, and the joy of working and playing together created a truly wonderful experience.

At the end of school separations must be made, but not without one last fling at our beach party. However, even during the separation of distance and time of the summer months, Alpha Delta Theta are Sisters forever.

Kappa Delta

Gamma Gamma chapter, ever stressing quality, not quantity, pledged the twelve best girls that High Point College had to offer. As always the year began and ended as a Kappa Delta year.

This is how it went. Grovey told Spas to "Just Walk On By," and by the way Seigle, "I Think You've Got Your Fools Mixed Up." Looks like Jack is waiting for that Italian flyer. Buffy, you are so shook up and bless you, Lee. Where is that crazy Mimi? We hear that K. K. left lipstick traces, and Hop-along Hairfield has acquired racing stripes. But, wait, tune in tomorrow for Part CXI of David and C. squared. Hey Bev, keep it down. Deanie is looking for a ride to . . . anywhere! Listen Fang, stop fiddling around or you might get horny. Doody went from XKE to SAE in three seconds flat. H. H. Esq. is now selling little pencils. How was that first meeting, Karen? and who is that old lady in the fuzzy sweater? Issacs still advocates blind dates, and gosh we miss Hunt. Beam's dates are really blind. Dorsay and KD sweetheart are. Sander's heart washed ashore on Tripoli. Que-pasa with Tricky Cruit? Pat, are you still gold digging? Bean-head got frost bitten. Date's date, date was blitzed by the claw. Suggestion for McEwan — pick up a T. V. Guide. Susie loves Sneek-a-Snack, and Joyce and C. Phi Mu

Amidst the happiness and sorrows which we all shared, Phi Mu completed another successful year. We returned from summer vacation with all the enthusiasm which binds us together. We worked hard from the start and were rewarded with sixteen wonderful pledges. Leslie and Sharon finally rode the goat along with Cherie, Connie and Leslie Steele. Candlelights became quite popular and Les and Britt finally received the pin for which they've been pinning. Louise got a thirty diamond ring and a boy to parachute into the football field. Cherie's library studies paid off well. Teague is beginning to hear wedding bells along with school bells. Lynn and Claudia are still in hot pursuit — their goal — Duke! Janet and CK always at the gym. Maggie and Dana add to the Phi Mu Five, while Robin with her guitar is really a star. Judy takes economics trying to improve the treasury. Linda without Tim and Dim without Pete you'll never see. Alice, you say you're going to join the Air Force? Cathy, Lynn, and Carol fighting for the phone booth make quite a crew. Pete and Bob, what needs to be said! Marcy, how's your teddy bear? Cheryl's seat belts keep Phi Mu's close. Donna wants to pledge $\Delta\kappa\alpha$. Irene chases Charles on the Beltway. Ellen is our wise owl. Vickie, Phyllis, and Sandy form the basement crew. Nancy, Ellen, and Connie, real peaches they are. Is Sherwood majoring in Art? Our one real talent, Ann. Dana's our beauty and will represent us well in the Miss Golden Decade Pageant. All this is just a part of life in Phi Mu.

Zeta Tau Alpha

Rush is over — Hallelujah — Zeta did it again — our fabulous fifteen pledges! Who can find time to study amidst bridge games with Glo, the "great doubler" and Nancy's songfest — to the tune of "Roomie Love" — the discussion of which way Joannie will turn that picture today, Ellen and Marty returning from their mountain trips?

Did I hear Marilyn say something finally — or was it only Rita's "honk"? Searching for letters in the Dempsey Dumpster, Tricia? Margie and her "by the 10th, girls". Greenwood, how many did you finally grab for that party at O. D.? Lynn is still looking for someone to pose! Some rock, Winstead!! Donna hands junior marshal honor to Sue. Pam — is it the "Tombs" or Texas this weekend? P.C. loves P.C. and Betty's still looking for watermelons and talent, or is it her KA Brute?

These memories are only small reminders of the great friendships and intangible ideals that can not fill any scrapbook — yet will fill our hearts and minds always when one Zeta meets another — anytime, anywhere.

Many students at High Point College find it profitable and enjoyable to participate in the various campus organizations. Whether the individual is interested in campus politics, religious activity, publications, or fine arts, he can find his niche in some extracurricular organization on campus. Sometimes good rapport results in new friendships, sometimes bad communication results in friction, but always the experiences involved in these activities increase the student's understanding of his peers.

This year, bold steps were taken in the improvement of several organizations. As it happens every year, each of this year's organizations displayed its own personality. Some campus groups lost prestige while some newly formed organizations made significant contributions to the campus in their first year. Participation in these activities aided in the development of well-rounded individuals.

ORGANIZATIONS

Student Government Association

Organized for and by the students, the Student Government Association functions through three separate bodies—the Executive Council, the Legislature, and Judiciary Council.

The elected officers are responsible for supervision of assembly programs, the orientation committee, and special events. This year all three bodies have worked toward greater unity.

One of the biggest events this year was having Miss America at High Point College to crown our Miss Golden Decade. Her presence, along with the presence of Miss North Carolina, helped to make the pageant, sponsored by the Student Government Association in connection with the High Point Jaycees, one of the most exciting ever held in this area.

Barbara McDiarmid, Secretary

Jim Coston, Treasurer

Forrest Dover, President

Jim Allison, Vice-President

Robbie Myers, Speaker; Patty Finks, Secretary;
Brian Ditzler, Speaker Pro-tem.

Student Legislature

Composed of elected representatives of the major organizations on campus, the Student Legislature acts on proposed measures which improve the academic and social atmosphere of the college.

Legislature and its committees were very busy this year with concerns such as arranging the big social weekends, revising the Penal Code and the Student Government Constitution, running week-long coffee houses featuring professional entertainment, creating the Student Public Affairs Committee, reactivating the Student Congress, and considering academic changes ranging from increasing the allotted number of class cuts for juniors and seniors and allowing credit to be given for publications participation.

Judiciary Council

Carrying the responsibility and duty of trying all cases concerning infractions of the rules of the Student Government Association and High Point College, the Judiciary Council has worked toward the goal of handling all cases involving any student, with the exception of cases involving extreme moral charges.

In carrying out their judicial duties, the Council follows the principles of the innocence of the accused until guilt is proven.

This year the Judiciary Council, as the highest Judicial body on campus, has achieved their goal of insuring the rights of the student at High Point College through a combined effort with the Dean of Students, the Student Personnel Committee, and the administration.

Scholastic Honor Society

One of the greatest honors anyone can receive at High Point College is to be invited into the Scholastic Honor Society.

In order to become a member, a senior must have a quality point ratio of 2.25. A junior may become a member upon completion of 75 semester hours with a quality point ratio of 2.75.

The Society has as its goals the stimulation of a desire for learning and recognition of outstanding scholarship.

Order Of The Lighted Lamp

Each year in one of the college assemblies, a number of students are inducted into the Order of the Lighted Lamp. Organized in 1935, it is the oldest honor society on the High Point College campus. In order to be considered for membership, a student must have maintained a 1.75 average in his previous five semesters at High Point College and must have displayed outstanding character and leadership in his college career. Current members of the society make nominations and a majority of the faculty must approve each nomination.

Junior Marshals

Being chosen a Junior Marshal is the highest honor that can be given to any junior by High Point College. The marshals are the twenty students with the highest over-all scholastic average for the first two years of college.

The duties of the marshals range from putting out assembly bulletins to ushering at various college functions. One of the most important tasks of the marshals is helping at graduation time.

At the end of the school year there is a banquet given in the marshals' honor.

Kappa Delta Pi

"Eager to promote a closer bond among students of Education and to enter into more intimate fellowship with those dedicated to the cause of teaching as a profession" is the description of the spirit of Kappa Delta Pi, an honor society in education, according to the preamble of the society's constitution and bylaws. Kappa Mu chapter was installed at High Point College on May 27, 1965, and was the first honorary fraternity on campus. Individuals are invited to join the society based on high scholarship and an exhibited good professional attitude.

Alpha Phi Gamma

Established at HPC in November of 1966, the Delta Beta Chapter of Alpha Phi Gamma, honorary journalistic fraternity, had nineteen members this year.

The purpose of Alpha Phi Gamma is to recognize and honor individual achievement in the field of journalism as demonstrated through student publications.

This year Alpha Phi Gamma had many projects on the agenda. Among these were hopes to arouse interest in the fraternity among other colleges in the area and plans for a publications workshop.

Student Christian Association

It was the purpose of the Student Christian Association of High Point College to help students, faculty, and administration to develop a deep awareness of the love of God and to help them grow into a meaningful relationship with God, Jesus Christ, and their fellowmen—fellow students, professors, and persons in general—through the encouragement of and participation in religious activities of the College and community.

Fellowship Team members enjoy their Training Retreat.

Fellowship Teams is an organization of college students devoted to and interested in helping the youth groups of churches throughout the state. The students learn by helping others to find themselves.

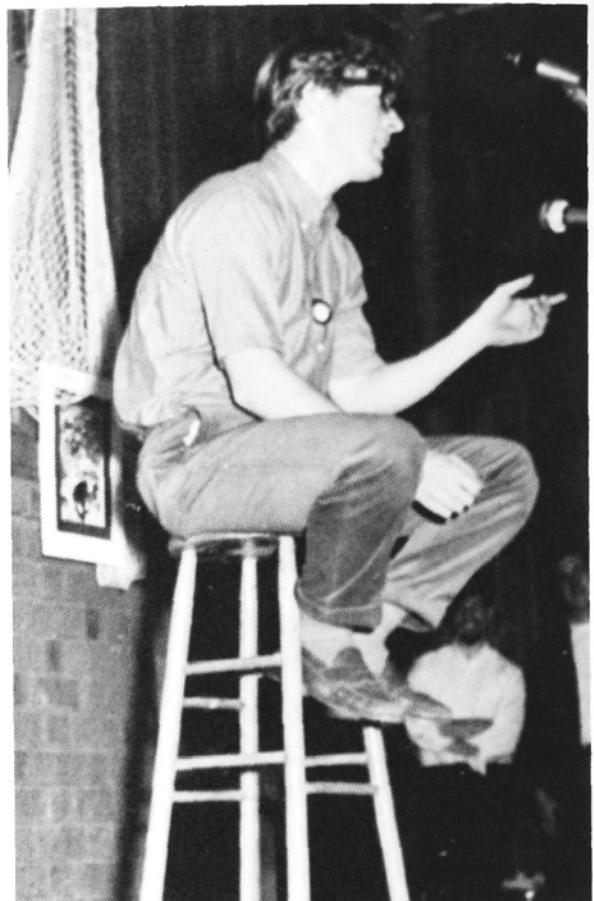

Team visits usually occur on weekends. The members live in the homes of the church families. They give instruction in recreation, worship, program planning, and the purposes of the fellowship.

The retreat at Millbrook started the year off with a real "bang". Swimming, sports, recreation, and fellowship made the weekend a very special occasion.

The Methodist Student Fellowship and the Baptist Student Union with the guidance of the Student Christian Association, this year transcended denominational barriers to form an all-inclusive group, THE CIRCLE. In this fusion, they endeavored to discover themselves as individuals, to relate to each other, and to react to the changing world in totally different ways.

Through programs designed as "encounters" with humanity and God, they sought to view the realities of their lives and to respond. These "encounters" alternated in style from "coffee houses" in the Student Center to lectures in the bandroom. Included were such varied events as a Pogo Character's drama, "Whose God Is Dead?", psychedelic "happenings", and lectures on "The Christian Views Existentialism" and "The Human Side of Christ" and the film "Only a Man."

Women's Dormitory Council

Standing: Yoe, Neese, Klay, Parker, Shelly, Sturm, Thompson, Peterson, Hall;
Seated: Johns, Kait, Mrs. Bennett, Mrs. Turpin, Housemothers, Decker, Hayden.

With its many obligations, the Women's Dormitory Council at High Point College tries to develop in resident women individual honor and personal responsibility. This year governing decisions of the Council were made during the Monday night Council meetings.

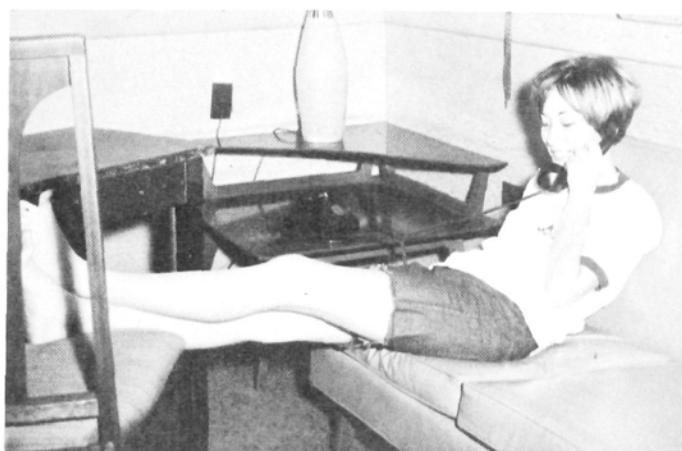

Members of the Council hear many complaints: no hot water, slamming doors, "no dating during the week for freshman women — really!!"

Health inspection was a great threat, but then so were the weekly room inspections made by Mrs. Bennett and Mrs. Turpin, the housemothers.

Duties such as checking freshmen during closed study and remembering to lock up on the right night were part of being a member of the Women's Dormitory Council.

Ann Neese, President, relaxes on new bed which will be in the new dormitory.

The Men's Dormitory Council this year had as its major achievement the painting of the third floor lounge of McCulloch Hall and the installation of a new carpet. It might be said that these "stalwarts of justice" have worked hard to better the living conditions in the dormitories. With the initiation of the "Busy" signs and the co-operation of all residents of the dorms, a relatively ostentatious year has been achieved.

Being the governing body of McCulloch and Millis dormitories, the Council governs and guides with the aid of Mrs. Long and Mrs. McKeekin-Kerr, resident counselors, who serve in an advisory capacity.

Preparation before a Tower Players' production.

Chief Brown Bear (Pat Austin) shows Corporal Jester (Rob Sale) how to be a "heap big injun."

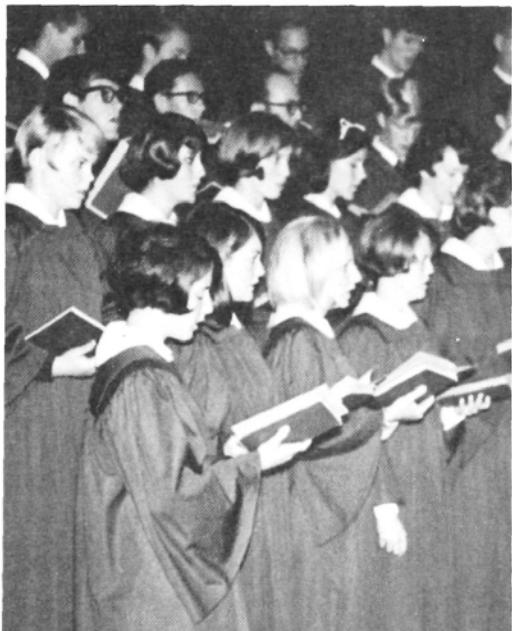

"What a pity the Tower Players of High Point College are giving the Murray Shisgal one-act plays 'The Tiger' and 'The Typists' only two nights," wrote Greensboro Daily News entertainment editor Jim McAllister after the first Tower Players Production of this academic year on November 3 and 4. "The Tiger", a violent confrontation of a ferocious non-conformist and a respectable housewife, and "The Typist", the story of the struggle of two office workers to rid themselves of loneliness and frustrations, were both highly acclaimed.

The success of this production followed the popular production of "Little Mary Sunshine", which filled the stage with light song and dance in the spring of 1967. Enthusiasm defined this musical from the enjoyment found in the behind-the-scenes preparations to the magic that came across the footlights.

Long hours of practice and hard work aided the High Point College Choir in producing many memorable programs during the past year.

After a triumphant performance of Haydn's Lord Nelson Mass with the North Carolina Symphony Orchestra in the spring of 1967, the Choir began the new year with several appearances in college assembly programs. Their annual Christmas concert was highlighted by an inspirational performance of The Song of Christmas.

The Choir, directed by Mrs. Frances Redding, believes in enriching the lives of people by way of song and spiritual joy and capped the year with a spring tour and participation in the dedication of Wesley Memorial Methodist Church, singing Brahms' Requiem.

An outstanding performance in Assembly.

The Musical Arts Club is an organization of music majors and minors. Fine Arts faculty members are sponsors for the club. Members serve as ushers at concerts and recitals, give receptions at these events, and publicize department functions. The highlight of the year for the club this year was the annual Fine Arts Festival, held in the fall of the year for the purpose of promoting fine arts events on campus.

Society for Advancement of Management

OFFICERS: Mr. Robinson, advisor, J. Needham, W. Harding, J. Davis.

Dedicated to the development of tomorrow's managers today is the Society for Advancement of Management (S.A.M.). The High Point College Chapter is one of many University Chapters throughout the nation. They provide a bridge between the theoretical training of the classroom and the practical world of business and management.

Objectives of the High Point College chapter are to bring together executives in business and students preparing to go into business and to serve as an effective medium for the exchange and distribution of information on the problems, policies and techniques of management in industry. This year these objectives were obtained through plant visitations, speakers, and dinners.

Inter -Fraternity Council

Serious purpose, creative and constructive contributions to the college and the community, and fostering the development of good character and fellowship among the member fraternities characterized the activities of this year's Inter-Fraternity Council, the governing body for the four Greek letter social fraternities at High Point College, Delta Sigma Phi, Lambda Chi Alpha, Pi Kappa Alpha, and Theta Chi.

The Inter-Fraternity Council experienced a structural improvement by promoting an advisory conference with national fraternity representatives and by participating in the National Inter-Fraternity Convention in Atlanta, Georgia.

The strength of the Inter-Fraternity Council is derived from the co-operation of the fraternities. Through this co-operation, the I.F.C. co-ordinated fraternal functions and rush for the Greeks, awarded the I.F.C. Scholarship Trophy, and with the help of the Panhellenic Council, planned co-rec night and Greek Week.

President, Bob St. John

Panhellenic Council

Governing all four sororities on the High Point College campus is the Panhellenic Council, whose purpose it is to strengthen the bonds of friendship among sorority members, thus strengthening the entire Greek system.

This year the Council carried out a most impressive and effective rush season consisting of a skit to introduce the rushees to the Greek system and several meetings with the rushees to answer their questions concerning rush.

The Council held a very successful Sadie Hawkins Dance and, in conjunction with the Inter-Fraternity Council, planned and carried out the annual Greek Week. The Council also decorated the cafeteria for a unique and exciting Halloween Dinner and has been responsible for the advertisement of all athletic events on campus.

Lastly, the Panhellenic Council, has worked in strengthening the Junior Panhellenic Council, which functions as the regular Council with the exception that its members consist of girls from the four pledge classes. The establishment of the Junior Panhellenic Council was just another way of preparing sorority girls to take their place in the ever improving and active Greek system on the High Point College campus.

Student National Education Association

Promoting enthusiasm for teaching as a means of personal fulfillment in life is the desire of the Student National Education Association. The Calvin Wiley Chapter of High Point College is a member of the SNEA, a professional organization for those desiring to teach.

Workshops and conferences informed members of new methods and teaching improvements. Subscriptions to state and national magazines kept students up to date in education. Varied programs illustrated all aspects of the profession and introduced members to student-teacher situations. Projects, such as tutoring, helped members to develop teaching skills and an understanding of pupils.

English Club

Bob Donovan, v. president; Richard Chappell, president.

Advised by Dr. Sam Underwood, the English Club provided an opportunity for interested students to delve into problems of literary criticism and to express their own ideas through creative works of their own.

Club projects such as the Theatre Enrichment Series netted revenue which met club expenses and provided a fund from which money was drawn to finance club programs. Meeting twice monthly, the English Club had as its guests outstanding lecturers and professors from the southeast and members of the High Point College faculty who presented original compositions, essays, and poems in intellectually stimulating programs.

Forensic League

To develop interest and skill in the fields of public speaking, debate, oral interpretation, and reader's theatre is the purpose of the Forensic League.

Beginning in October, the debate team traveled to Auburn University, Lenoir Rhyne College, and Wake Forest University compiling an impressive record by defeating such schools as the University of Virginia, the University of Maryland, Randolph-Macon College, Peabody College, Davidson College, and the University of Florida.

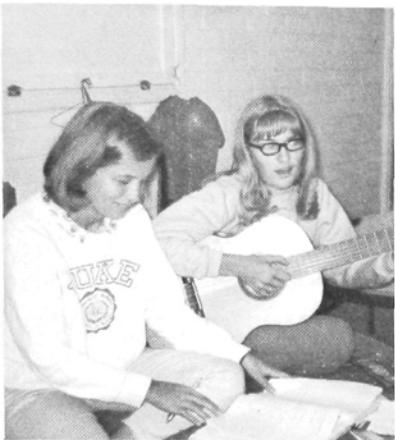

The Forensic League sponsored a speech contest in December, a reader's theatre production, and a spring debate tournament for approximately eight area colleges.

Humanics Student Association

Founded on the High Point College campus in 1965, the American Humanics Foundation has continued to grow to its present membership of twenty-four.

The Student Association met weekly this year to hear speakers and to conduct necessary business. Field trips were held periodically to youth serving agencies for a first-hand look into future positions for students. The annual retreat, held at the beginning of the fall semester, was the highlight of the year's activity for the students in the Humanics Student Association at High Point College.

Women's Athletic Association

A wonderful and productive year was seen by the Women's Athletic Association in 1967-68. While promoting an interest in recreation and athletic activities, the girls in the Association participated in such activities as field hockey and volleyball. Intramurals were an integral part of the year for the Association along with such money-making projects as selling candy and a bake sale. As a result of the events of this year, the Women's Athletic Association ended the year with an emphasis upon physical fitness and good sportsmanship.

The Physical Education Majors Club promotes a professional attitude in the field of Physical Education. Through various activities the members broaden their scope and understanding of their field.

The majors are active in the basketball ad campaign and each year sponsor Co-Rec Night for the entire student body. As a closing for the year the annual Awards Banquet is held which honors the varsity teams of the college.

The Concession Stand is kept busy during basketball games.

Bobby Robertson, President, is an efficient organizer.

Circle K

OFFICERS: Johnson, Boyd, Moore, Hardister

Circle K is the largest college organization in existence — there are over 775 clubs throughout the United States and Canada. Proud of this heritage, Circle K intended to extend its service programs throughout High Point.

First and last a service organization, Circle K has developed and conducted successfully many activities throughout our country. The High Point Chapter inaugurated a calendar of social and other school activities as its primary service project this year. Other programs were in the planning stages.

As in Kiwanis, the Circle K motto is "We Build." Circle K has proved itself to be not merely an organization, but a driving force, developing leadership for tomorrow while creating a better college or university community today.

Apogee Staff

Faced with the same situations that had manifested themselves in previous years, this year's Apogée staff spent first semester begging for poetry, prose, book reviews, and art work and was flooded with these materials second semester.

The year was composed of late meetings, conferences with Dickel & Daniels, searching for the love theme, putting it in, and finally the publication of the finished product — Apogée, 1968, High Point College's artistic extravaganza!

Reading Committee consists of L. Crowder, B. Peterson, D. Gilbert, M. Matthews, and E. Brading.

Staff members take time out for ping pong at the annual CSPA convention in N. Y. C.

Mike Hoke's word is heeded.

Hi-Po Staff

Now in its forty first year of existence, The Hi-Po has grown from a sporadic publication of little consequence to a weekly newspaper that gets things done.

Rated one of collegiate Carolina's top newspapers by the Charlotte News and Observer's annual contest, The Hi-Po continued to grow this year, and with its growth came better dissemination of news, thought provoking comment, and illuminating in-depth news and feature articles.

In the future, The Hi-Po will continue its program of expansion to become a force not only on campus but also in the community.

Zenith Staff

Publishing a yearbook is a long process requiring work on the part of many people. This year the Zenith has sought to become truly a student publication by including more students on the staff.

This year's Zenith pages are marked by a new paper finish and a new style of print. An experimental modern layout, a different style on division pages, and a new emphasis on copy were aspects of the Zenith which gave the book a new flavor.

Lay-out Staff: B. Holcomb, J. Davis, M. Bridwell, editor, S. Melton, M. Cusano, R. Miller, R. Jones, S. Franz.

A hectic day in the Zenith office as the yearbook slowly takes shape.

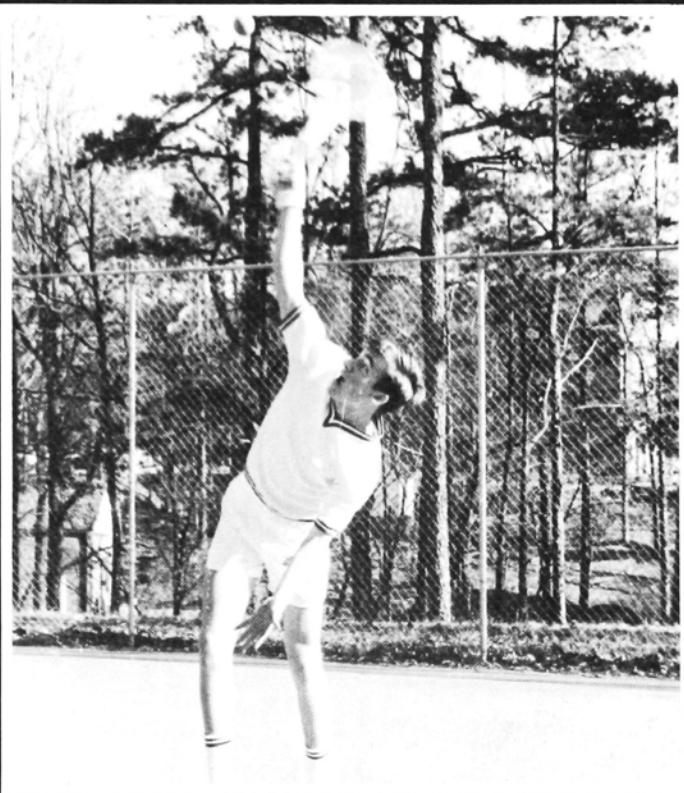

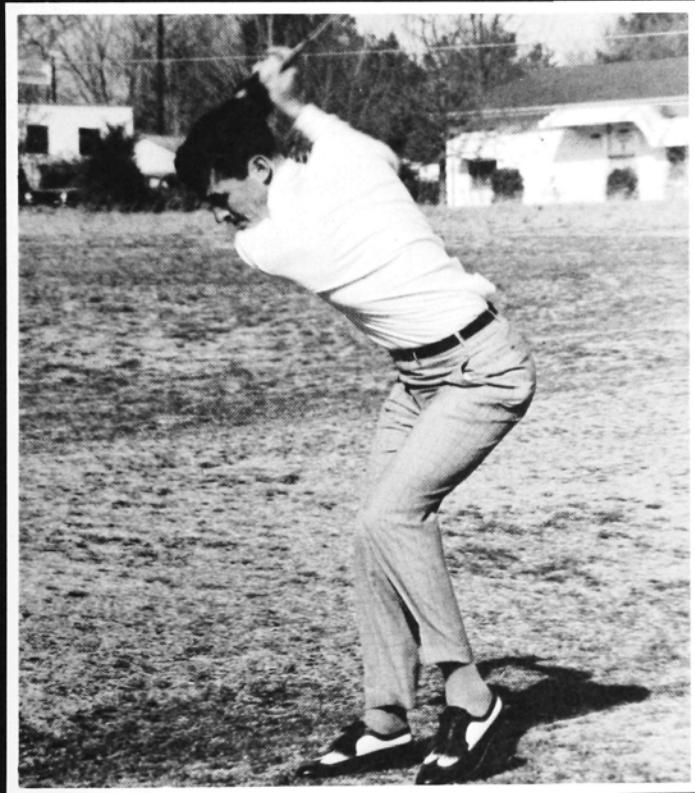

Athletics is an important part in the life of each student at High Point College, whether through direct participation or observation from the sidelines. The beginning of basketball season brings an end to the athletic dormancy of the first few college months and evokes an excitement on the campus that is unparalleled during the rest of the year.

In each sport the preparatory steps taken before the actual contests include many hours spent on recruiting new players, forming and practicing plays, and analyzing team mistakes. These preparations pay off when the final statistics are accumulated at the end of the season.

SPORTS

Cheerleaders

Leading the cheers at the HPC basketball games was this year's excellent squad of cheerleaders. Many hours of practice serve as preparation for their work during the exciting Panther contests.

A new look was prominent in this year's cheerleaders. Many new girls received positions on the squad this year, being selected on the basis of try-outs held before the student body in assembly. Many compliments were given to the cheerleaders on their new uniforms this year.

Cheerleaders promote spirit for the basketball season.

We have the pep that a great school needs.

Representing the distaff side of High Point College basketball were the Pantherettes. Carrying a superior previous record into this year's contests, the girl's basketball team performed well against their opponents. Their schedule included games with Western Carolina, UNC-G, and Mitchell College.

Miss Clary, coach, gives the team a pep talk.

And That Panther Enthusiasm!

Panther Teamwork

The Panthers plan their strategy during a time-out.

Tatgenhorst works at defense.

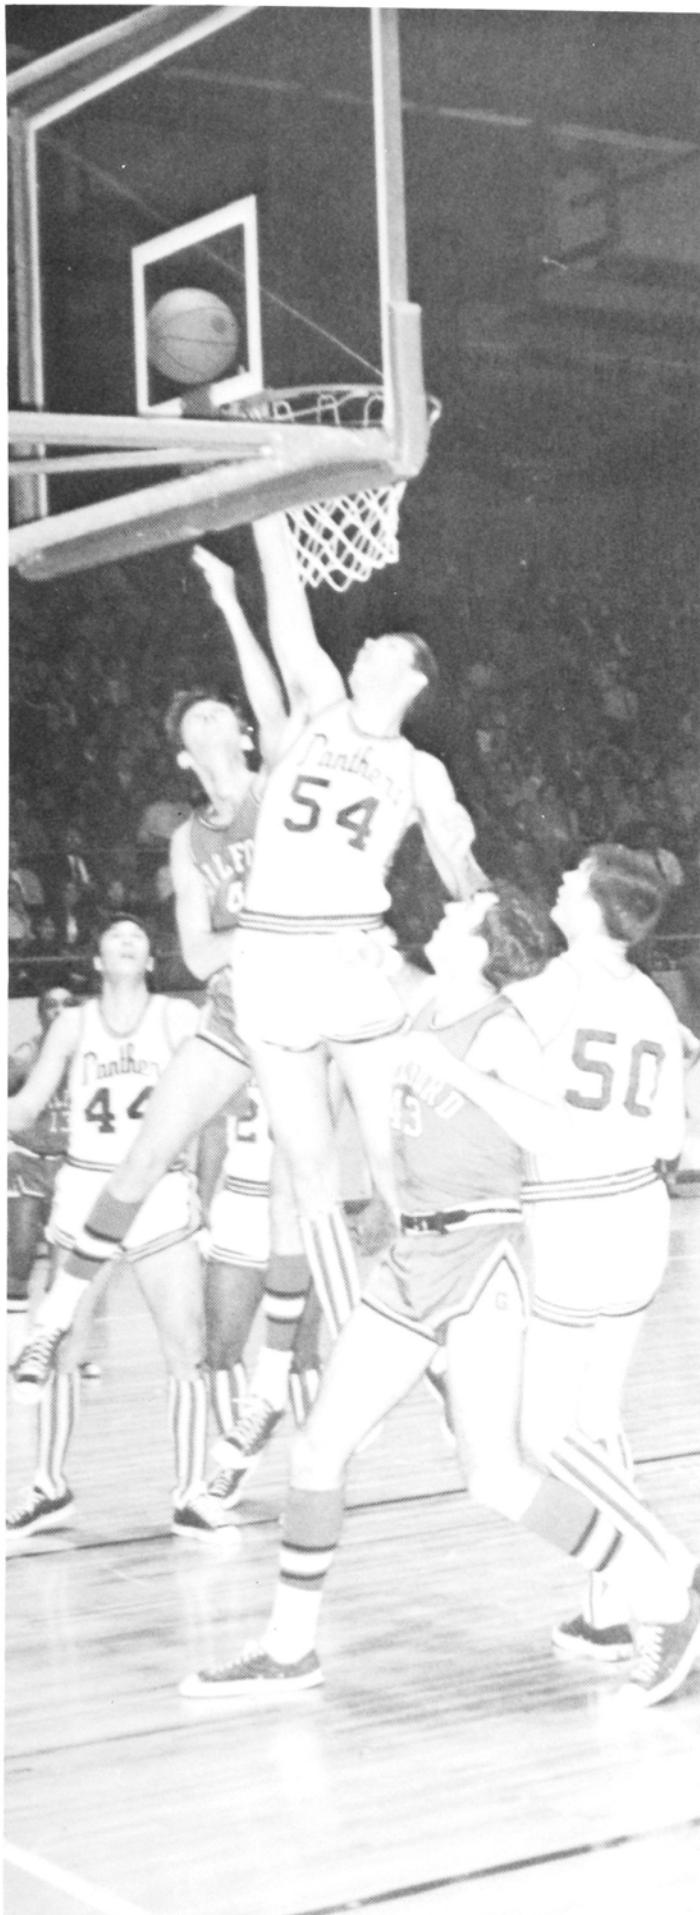

Gene Littles captured a berth on the All-Carolina's Conference Team for the third consecutive year.

The High Point defense squelches Elon.

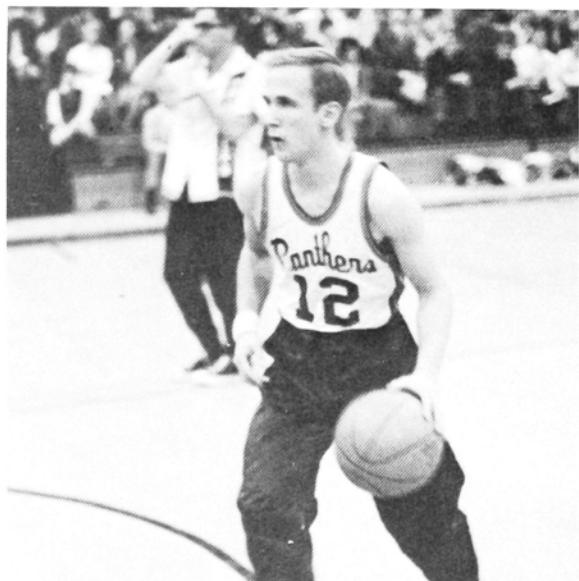

Stifles Opponents

Picka emerges at the top of a tower of players.

Colbert looks for an open teammate.

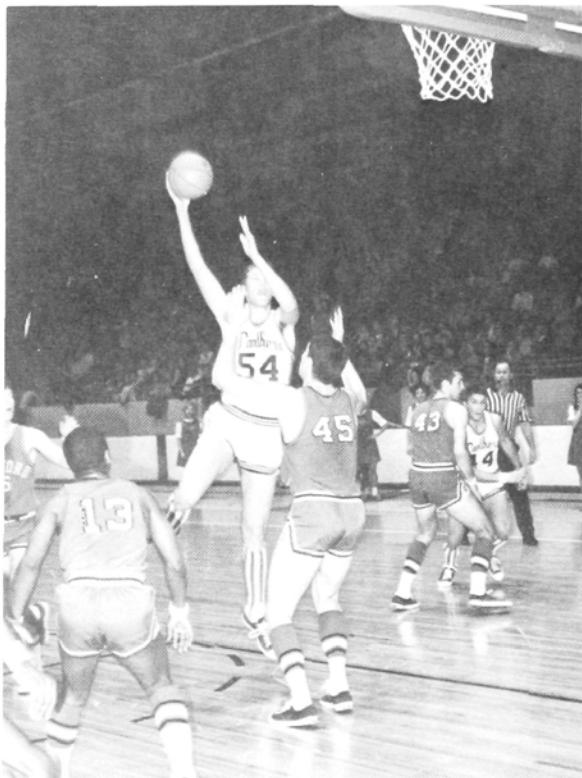

Witt is a spark in the Panther line-up.

Carolina's Conference Basketball

Littles goes up for two against Pfeiffer.

Eyes in the Greensboro Coliseum focus on Jim Picka.

The ref gives Elon's Coach Miller some friendly advice.

Ron Horney defends against Pfeiffer.

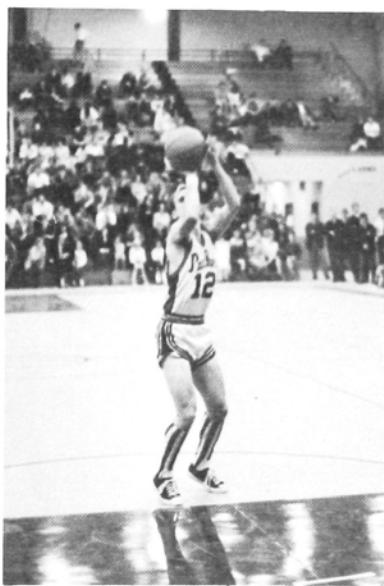

Fascinates the Crowds

Time-outs aren't as tense with a ten-point lead.

Littles makes another fantastic effort.

Witt conquers the foul line.

A leaping Tatgenhorst tries for a bucket.

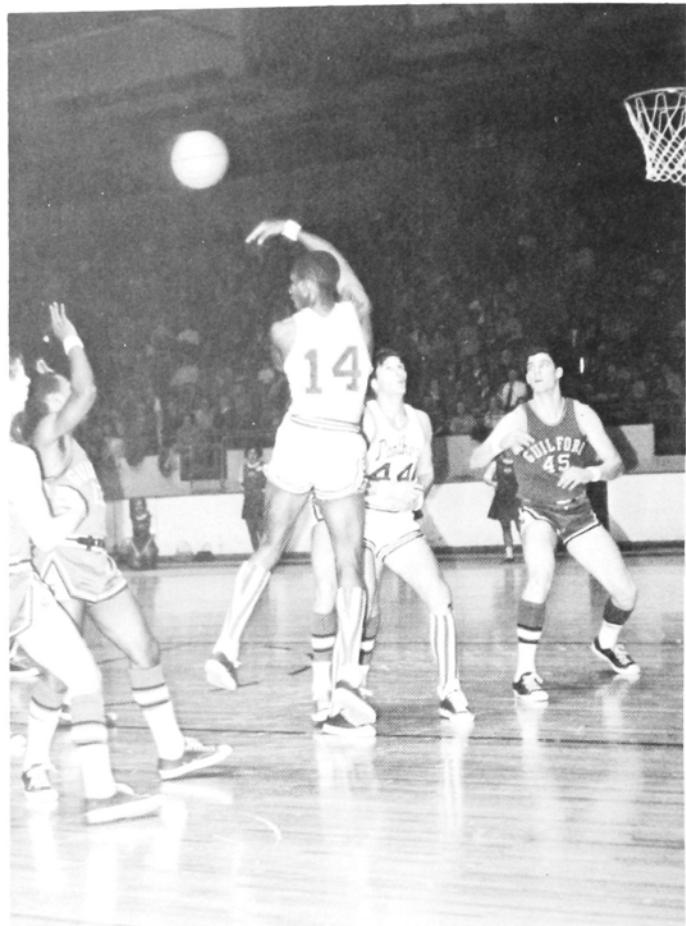

The teams prepare to rebound.

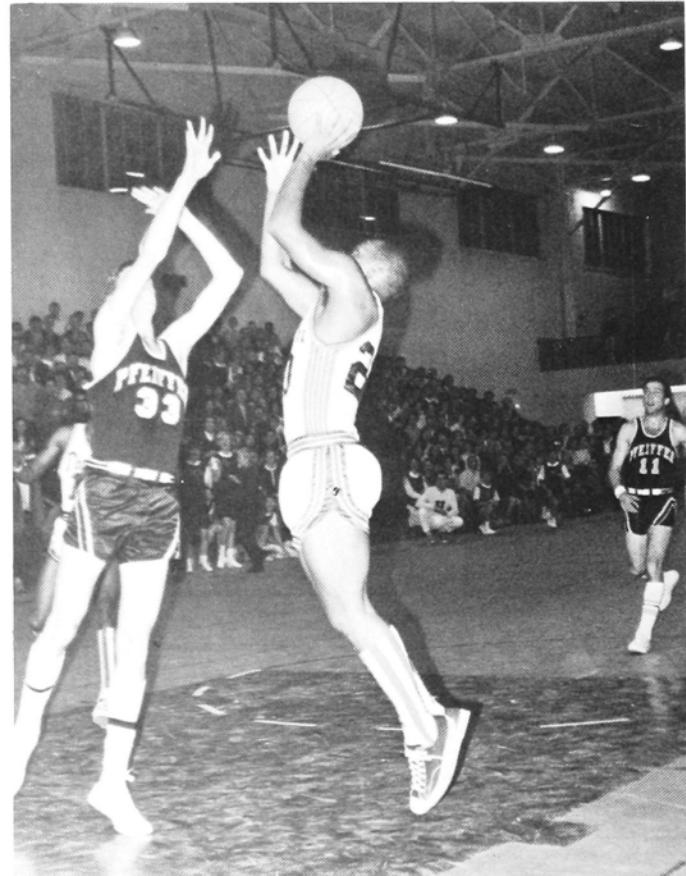

Panther Powerhouse—Great Year

A jump ball always generates excitement.

Littles receives crowd approval with a fabulous pass.

Colbert goes up for a short jumper.

In their second year of organization, the High Point College Fencing Team was in the process of building, trying to create more student interest in the year-round sport in order to gain financial help. Bob White, a nationally known fencer, has helped the team this year in developing balance, speed, and coordination with foil, sabre, and epee. Fencing is unique in that the fencer must be on offense and defense at the same time.

This year the team competed against such schools as Duke University, VMI, Wake Forest University, N. C. State, UNC-G, and UNC at Chapel Hill. The team also participated in the Novice Championships at Duke and placed well in invitational tournaments at High Point and Raleigh. The State Fencing Championship was held at High Point College on March 23, 1968.

In no place is the advancement of the student in college life more clearly seen than in the steps from class to class. Excitement about his new endeavor permeates the freshman student, while the sophomore is given self assurance by being an upper-classman. The junior is usually a forward-looking individual with more involvement in his major and its meaning in his future life. Realization of the proximity of graduation is the mood of the senior year.

Although each class step has its own distinct traits, the classes at High Point College are not completely separate entities. A strong interrelationship among classes is created through fellowship in extra-curricular activities.

SENIORS GRADUATED IN MAY

Realization of the proximity of graduation from college became clearer to the senior because of the many things in which only a senior could participate — measurement for cap and gown, selection of a gift to the school, the Graduate Record Exam. To the senior student, however, graduation not only marked an ending but also represented a beginning, a threshold leading to the future . . . and the future is as close as tomorrow.

The senior assumed a role of leadership as he recollected his previous years at High Point College, feeling that his experience had qualified him as a satisfactory advisor for underclassmen. The senior continued on his path of seeking and achieving, culminating his college experience on that magic day of Commencement, May 19, when he took the giant step from student to alumnus.

EXCITEMENT DEFINED THE JUNIOR YEAR

Stepping closer to the achievement of his immediate goals, the junior became absorbed in his courses more than in previous years. He did allot some time though for participation in class functions.

Money-making projects received the most emphasis in the Junior Class during the 1967-68 school year. Funds from such events as a car wash and a student-faculty basketball game enabled the class to produce the long awaited Junior-Senior Prom on March 8, 1968.

Besides the excitement of the Prom the junior also received special joy from receiving his class ring. Comparison of rings was a common custom among students in their junior year. This part of being a junior, as well as others, served as a prelude to the more important year to come.

DECISIONS WERE REQUIRED OF SOPHOMORES

Completion of the basic college requirements before actually entering a major field was the main concern of the sophomore at High Point College. The Survey of World Literature and other core courses were completed with enthusiasm by some, with reluctance by others. To the sophomore who had already decided upon his major, the termination of core courses meant plunging into the more interesting higher courses; to the sophomore who was still searching for an appropriate major, the end of the first two years in college meant an uneasy feeling, being forced to come to a decision.

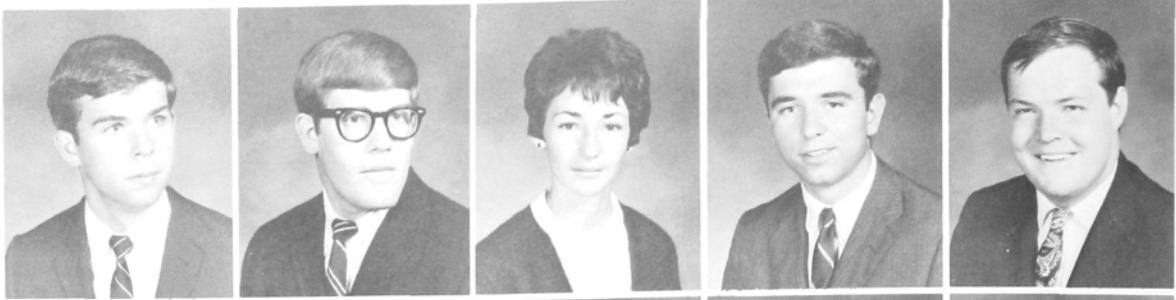

Once again, the sophomores began the school year with the traditional beanie program for the freshmen, which ended with the expected sophomore defeat at the tug-of-war. A dance featuring the music of the Paupers followed the tug-of-war. This dance was made possible by the success of this year's Beanie Court.

Unprecedented enthusiasm was displayed by the sophomores in the production of a talent show open to all High Point College students. Broadening of activities, both academic and extra-curricular, was characteristic of the sophomore of 1967-68.

NEW ROUTINE CONFUSED FRESHMEN

As 257 beanies seemingly popped up all at once on the campus September 4 the Freshman Class made its first impression as a separate entity apart from the other three classes. The freshman was required to wear his purple and white beanie until his class's victory over the sophomores at the traditional tug-of-war October 4.

Upon his initial step into college life, awe and confusion permeated the freshman's mind and body, from the slight repulsion resulting from the first view of his dormitory room conditions to the unexpected enjoyment of the first class conducted by what later became his favorite professor. Learning the give and take process required to share a room with a person from a different background and getting used to the idea of not having each class five days a week were small tasks which required adjustment on the part of the new college student.

Perhaps the most confusing event in which the freshman was required to participate was registration, the conglomeration of information cards, room numbers, and a seemingly unending list of professors and course names and numbers.

The freshman soon became settled, however, beginning participation in the various school activities, from sports to publications, and concentrating on the projects of his own class, the Freshman Talent Show and the Freshman Dance, both events during the second semester illustrating the freshman's gradual involvement in the main stream of High Point College life.

With the advent of the new Horace Haworth Hall of Science, the academic situation at High Point College was improved through expanded facilities that effected changes in many departments. The addition of new courses and the improvement of equipment were helpful steps taken to aid the student in pursuit of one of three degrees offered by the College: the Bachelor of Science, the Bachelor of Arts, and the Bachelor of Arts in Teaching.

A new five-day class schedule came into effect this year as students and faculty alike rejoiced over the system with no Saturday classes. Both building and planning innovations enhanced the student's scholastic advancement this year at High Point College.

New members of the Board are fascinated at a meeting.

Deep concentration is very essential.

Dr. Wendell M. Patton

Serving in his ninth year as President of High Point College, Dr. Wendell M. Patton executes the administrative duties of the institution. Under the direction of the Board of Trustees, Dr. Patton oversees the operations of the four administrative branches of High Point College: Academic Affairs, Student Affairs, Public Affairs, and Business Affairs.

Dr. Patton's educational background includes courses of study at Wofford College, the University of Georgia, Purdue University, and Colgate University and the B.S., M.S., Ph.D., and LL.D. degrees. In addition to fulfilling his ever-increasing executive duties, Dr. Patton is also constantly aware that he is a representative of High Point College wherever he goes. He carries out his responsibilities with dignity and efficiency, making new friends for High Point College each year.

Dr. Patton and Governor Moore exchange ideas at the annual meeting in Raleigh.

Dr. Patton shows Linda Greenwood some important materials about the college.

Dr. Patton and Dr. Weeks discuss various problems at High Point College.

Biology Department

What was new in the Biology Department this year?—A whole new beginning course! After much consideration, Biology professors decided to replace Botany and Zoology courses with a beginning course of two semesters in General Biology. So that some students could complete their science credits, Botany and Zoology were offered for the last time in 1967-1968.

One could not overlook the great contribution the new Horace Haworth Hall of Science made to the Biology students and professors this year. The large lecture halls and newly equipped laboratories served as big assets to the department. Senior Biology majors were able to do more research as they had a special area for such assignments.

Dr. Dorothy Stewart, Ph.D.
Department Head

Mrs. William Locke, B.S.

Dr. Leo Weeks, Ph.D.

Dr. William Lazaruk, Ph.D.

Business Department

Moving to the first floor of the newly renovated Cooke Hall greatly improved the facilities of the Business Department. Special features were the furniture which is designed especially for business classrooms and the seminar room which is air conditioned and has wall-to-wall carpeting.

Besides having two new faculty members, Mr. Lowe and Mr. Robinson, the Business Department instituted a new system at H.P.C. whereby businessmen from High Point teach from experience. This is thought to be more effective than textbook instruction.

A high point for the Business Department was the Church Management Institute held in October which was underwritten by the Board of Higher Education of the Methodist Church. Thirty ministers were taught principles of management, insurance and investments.

Chemistry Department

Dr. E. Roy Epperson, Ph.D.
Department Head

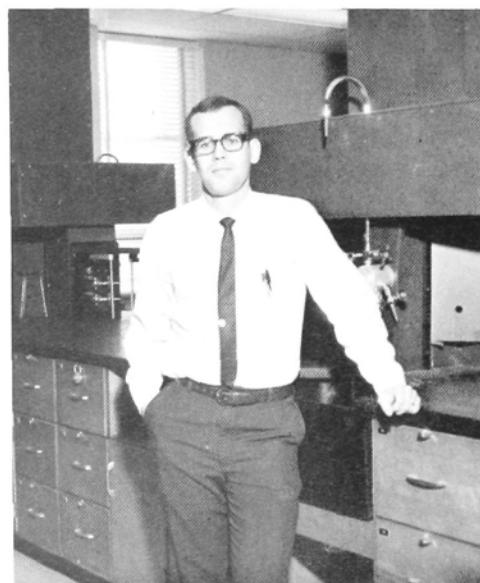

Dr. Christopher L. Wilson, Ph.D.

The Department of Physical Science stressed the ability to think and reason in scientific thought. The methods of science, particularly mathematics, physics and chemistry demanded on the part of the student a logic and accuracy of reasoning not found anywhere.

With the new million-dollar science building, students with an interest in this field had access to better facilities than ever before. The student who is proceeding to professional specialization in engineering, medicine, dentistry, teaching or other field of endeavor was offered advanced courses which stressed basic principles and the importance and impact of fundamental science on professional and industrial activity.

The courses for students who were majoring in chemistry were comprehensive and thorough and conformed to the minimum standards of the American Chemical Society.

Mr. Thomas G. Conally, B.S.

Education Department

Dr. Dennis H. Cooke, Ph.D.
Department Head

Mrs. Nancy W. Shelton, M.Ed.

Each year many students graduate from High Point College to become teachers throughout the country. In the Education Department, which is accredited by the Accreditation of Teacher Education, Prospective teachers received a Secondary School Certificate for teaching a specific subject or an Elementary Certificate for teaching in the primary grades.

In addition to offering the required courses, the Education Department tried to co-ordinate the over-all, general educational objectives of the College. A Student Teaching Program was offered whereby the student gained the experience of classroom work. The College also had chapters of Kappa Delta Pi, the National Honor Society of Education, and SNEA to create interest in teaching and education.

Fine Arts Department

Dr. Lew J. Lewis, Ed.D.
Department Head

This year the Fine Arts Department continued to develop performers, artists, and teachers and to foster an understanding and appreciation of the arts on the part of the general student body.

An important addition to the Fine Arts Department was Mrs. Carolyn Broderson, teaching speech and drama.

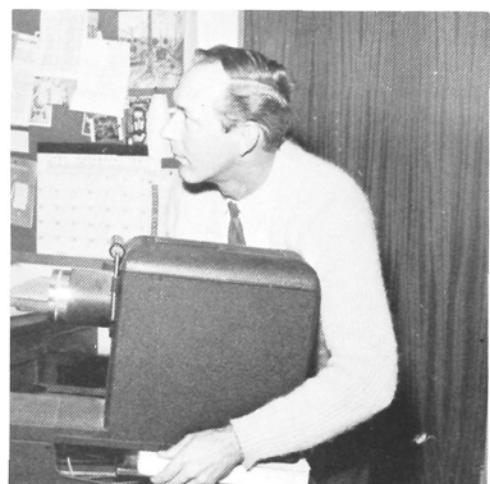

In addition to the Fine Arts Festival during the fall semester, several displays of talent were events of the spring semester. Mrs. May and Mrs. Redding gave recitals in piano and voice, respectively. Two joint-recitals were given by students during the second semester—one by Jenny Bond and Rob Sale, pianists, and one by Jane Wagner, pianist, and Douglas Rayle, organist. Recitals in oral interpretation by speech students and in original composition by music theory students were also on the agenda in the Fine Arts Department.

Mrs. Frances Redding, M.A.

Miss Elizabeth Cole, M.A.

Mr. Raiford M. Porter, M.F.A.

Mrs. Patsy J. May, M.Mus.

Mrs. Jane J. Burton, M.F.A.

Mrs. Carolyn Broderson, M.A.

History Department

Mr. O. Arthur Kirkman, M.S.

Dr. A. Paul Gratiot, Ph.D.
Department Head

Mr. David Holt, M.A.

Dr. Harold E. Conrad, Ph.D.

Mrs. E. K. Washington, M.A.

Headed by Dr. Paul Gratiot, the History Department tried to offer as many courses as possible so that each student could study to reach his own goals in the realm of history. In addition to particular history courses, courses in Political Science and Geography.

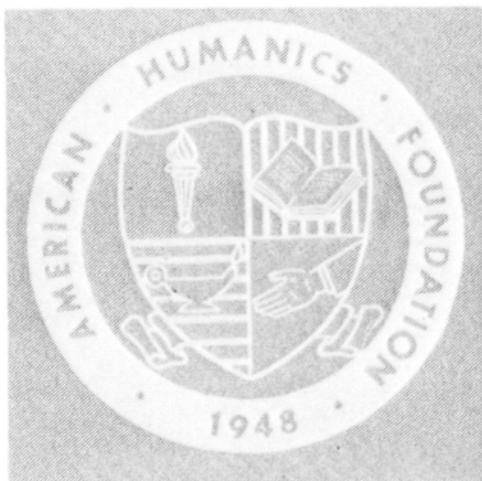

In the fall of 1967, High Point College added Mrs. Washington and Mrs. Motsinger to the History Department staff while Mr. Holt became a full-time professor.

Perhaps the biggest change in the department this year is the Western Civilization classes. For four years these classes met jointly twice a week for lecture and then broke down into small discussion groups for the third weekly class. This year Western Civilization classes returned to their former schedule of three classes a week consisting of small groups.

Dr. S. C. Deskins, Ph.D.

Humanics Department

Mr. L. E. Moody, M. A.

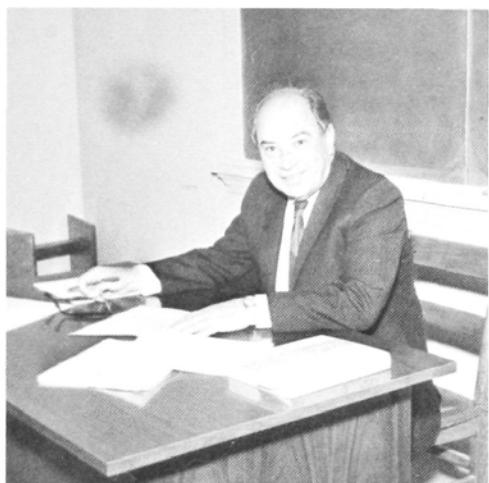

The purpose of the Humanics Department is to provide the best possible undergraduate background for young men and women who are looking forward to professional leadership in youth-serving agencies. Some of the careers open in this field are: Y.W.C.A., W.M.C.A., Girl Scouts, Girls' Clubs, Boy Scouts of America, Boys' Clubs, juvenile courts, training schools, Junior Achievement, recreational therapy, and counseling related fields.

In addition to a specific curriculum of courses not ordinarily found at the undergraduate level, the program sought to enrich the experience and understanding of its students through work projects, field trips to agencies, and other extra-curricular features.

With only four such departments on college campuses in America today, the department at High Point College is progressing. When the need for an associate administrator becomes necessary, there will be one on campus.

Dr. Arthur E. Le Vey, Ph. D.
Department Head

Mr. Juan Miranda, A. B.

Mr. Thomas E. Scott, A. M.

Language Department

The Modern Language Department has many objectives: to teach the student to understand the foreign language as spoken by an educated native, to teach the student to speak in order to express simple concepts with proper accent and idiom, to teach the reading and writing of the foreign language, to give advanced students a background of the oral language and of the literature so that they may pursue them for their own cultural and professional requirements, and to induce majors to continue their education in graduate study.

Foreign language students have access to the language laboratory in order to improve their speaking and listening comprehension. Since linguistic ability is essential if we are to continue to hold our place in a world of shrinking distance, the Foreign Language Department performs an invaluable service.

Miss Berta Hirtzler, M. A.

Mr. N. P. Yarborough, A. M.

Mathematics Department

Several new courses in the Mathematics Department were based on their new teletype machine. This machine punches cards, writes computer programs and then transmits them to the computer at the Triangle Universities Computation Center. Located in the Research Triangle, the computer is the largest kind that is made. The basic computer course offered this year was Introduction to Computer Science, which was available to anyone with three years of high school math or one year of college math. A Spring semester course in Fortran, the computer programming language, was also offered. Although it had been offered before, Linear Programming utilized the computer for the first time.

Other additions to the department were a course in Basic Statistics, which had not been offered in several years, and a new faculty member, Mrs. Sharrock. The department was proud that they had twice as many seniors in seminar in 1967-68 as ever before.

Mr. Carlton J. Cook, M.S.
Department Head

Mrs. Ruth V. Sharrock, M.Ed.

Physical Education Department

Dr. Charles M. Morris, Ed.D.
Department Head

Mr. Robert D. Davidson, M.E.

Mr. Charles F. Hartman, A.M.

Miss Betty Clary, M.Ed.

Striving to develop an appreciation for the rules and laws of exercises and healthful living in a complex society is the goal of the Physical Education Department. Through a four point program, the department prepared physical education majors for coaching in elementary and secondary schools and prepared men and women to consider work in related areas, such as the Y.M.C.A.

The department had an Intramural Athletic Program, offered on a seasonal basis, which gave wide range for competition in both individual and team sports. Forty-eight percent of the total student body participated in this program at one time or another. The Intercollegiate Athletic Program was another such program offered.

Progress was the key word in this department. This year the gymnasium had a new tartan floor. The tennis courts were resurfaced as well as installed with center straps. Also, Methods and Materials and Swimming were new courses offered.

Mr. Robert F. Vaughn, M.A.

Psychology Department

Several students in the Psychology Department made interesting experiments and surveys last year. Some of the topics were the following: "Library Usage — A Comparison of Eight Piedmont Colleges" by John W. Buffum; "Attitude Change of Religious Ideas After One Semester of College" by Tom Patterson; "Vietnam Survey" by John Roberts.

An interesting course offered in the department was Small Group Process, which was on a self-direction basis. The students studied themselves and their interaction with each other. Having obtained more space in Roberts Hall when the Business Department moved to Cooke Hall, the department hopes to limit the number of courses they teach and do them well, rather than add too many more. If they develop in a certain area, it will probably be in the area of Social Psychology.

Dr. William P. Matthews, Ph.D.
Department Head

Mr. Sherrell R. Wilkes, M.A.

Mr. Herman E. Coble, A.M.

Religion Department

Having increased the number of courses offered in philosophy in the last few years, the Department of Religion and Philosophy hopes that they will soon be able to offer a major in that field. Most of the courses offered by the department have been religion courses. Besides Logic, now offered every year, and Plato, a new course this year, the department is planning to offer Philosophy of Science, Aesthetics, and Existentialism.

The department was very proud of its publication, "The High Point College Review of Theology and Philosophy," edited by Dr. Crow, which contained articles written by members of the department and other members of the faculty.

This year for the first time there were two students, Daniel Crews and Morris Calhoun, who did honors work through individual research under the direction of Dr. Crow.

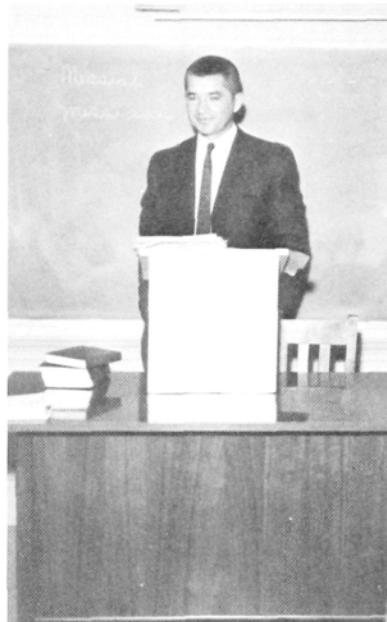

Dr. William R. Locke, Ph.D.
Department Head

Mrs. Dorothy Hays, M.R.E.

Dr. Owen M. Weatherly, Ph.D.

Dr. Earl P. Crow, Ph.D.

Reverend H. Samuel Carter, B.D.

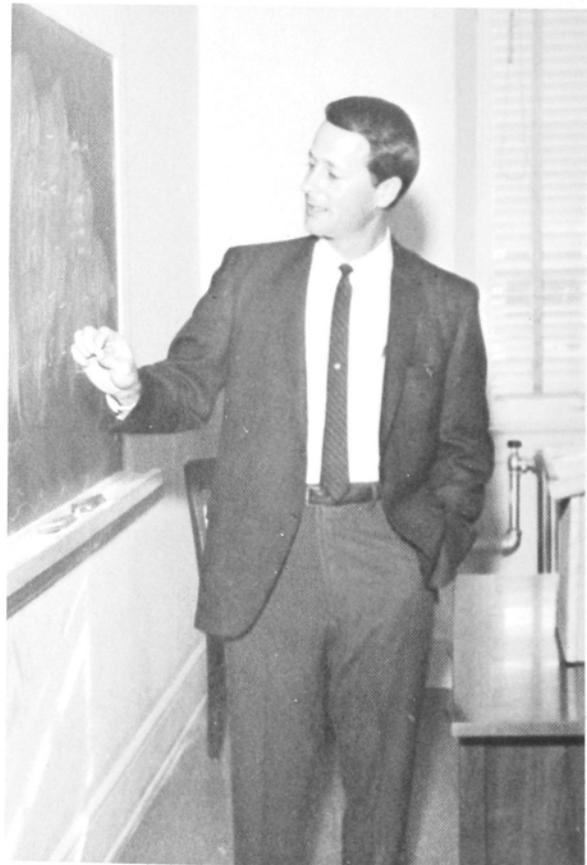

Dr. L. M. Hays, Ph.D.
Department Head

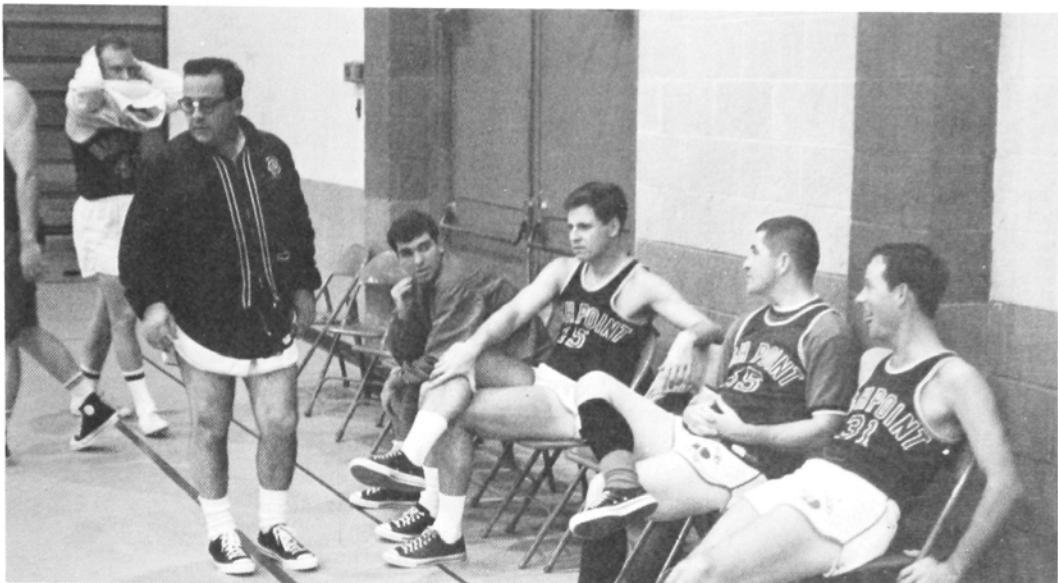

Sociology Department

This year for the first time, students taking Social Work and Social Case Work were able to work for ten weeks each semester with public agencies in the city of High Point. This involved working with juvenile delinquents in the Domestic Relations Court and with the City Parks and Recreation Service. During the second semester, some of the students taking the Social Work course worked with the North Carolina Manpower Development Corporation under the local mobility project.

Making up the Sociology Department were two part-time professors in the evening school and two full-time professors. The department hopes to have another full-time professor next year.

Mr. William F. Cope, M.S.

The business and professional community of High Point takes steps each year to support the College, and the High Point College students utilize many of the facilities in the city. Each year the High Point Merchants' Association sponsors a High Point College Day in which various businesses give away prizes to acquaint the students with the city. High Point college is becoming more and more a relevant part of the community.

During his college experience the student is profoundly influenced by the steps he takes — physical, social, service, religious, and academic. However, the steps of learning and experience do not end with graduation. Students will use their college background as a foundation on which to build, reaching higher echelons and becoming more useful citizens.

Throughout the 1968 ZENITH we have attempted to share these different facets of college life with you. There have been many long hours of work and frustration in putting the yearbook together. The results show many innovations that can be found throughout the book. We hope the students recognize and appreciate these different aspects and realize the work that has gone into this year's ZENITH.

Each year there are outstanding members of the staff with whose help the yearbook could not have been published. Among them are Doris Whitt, associate editor, Jon Faulkner, business manager, Steve Smith and Dave Bishop, our tireless photographers. A special "thanks" goes to Bucky Simon, the copy editor and Dr. Underwood, our advisor. They were always there when needed with that helping hand.

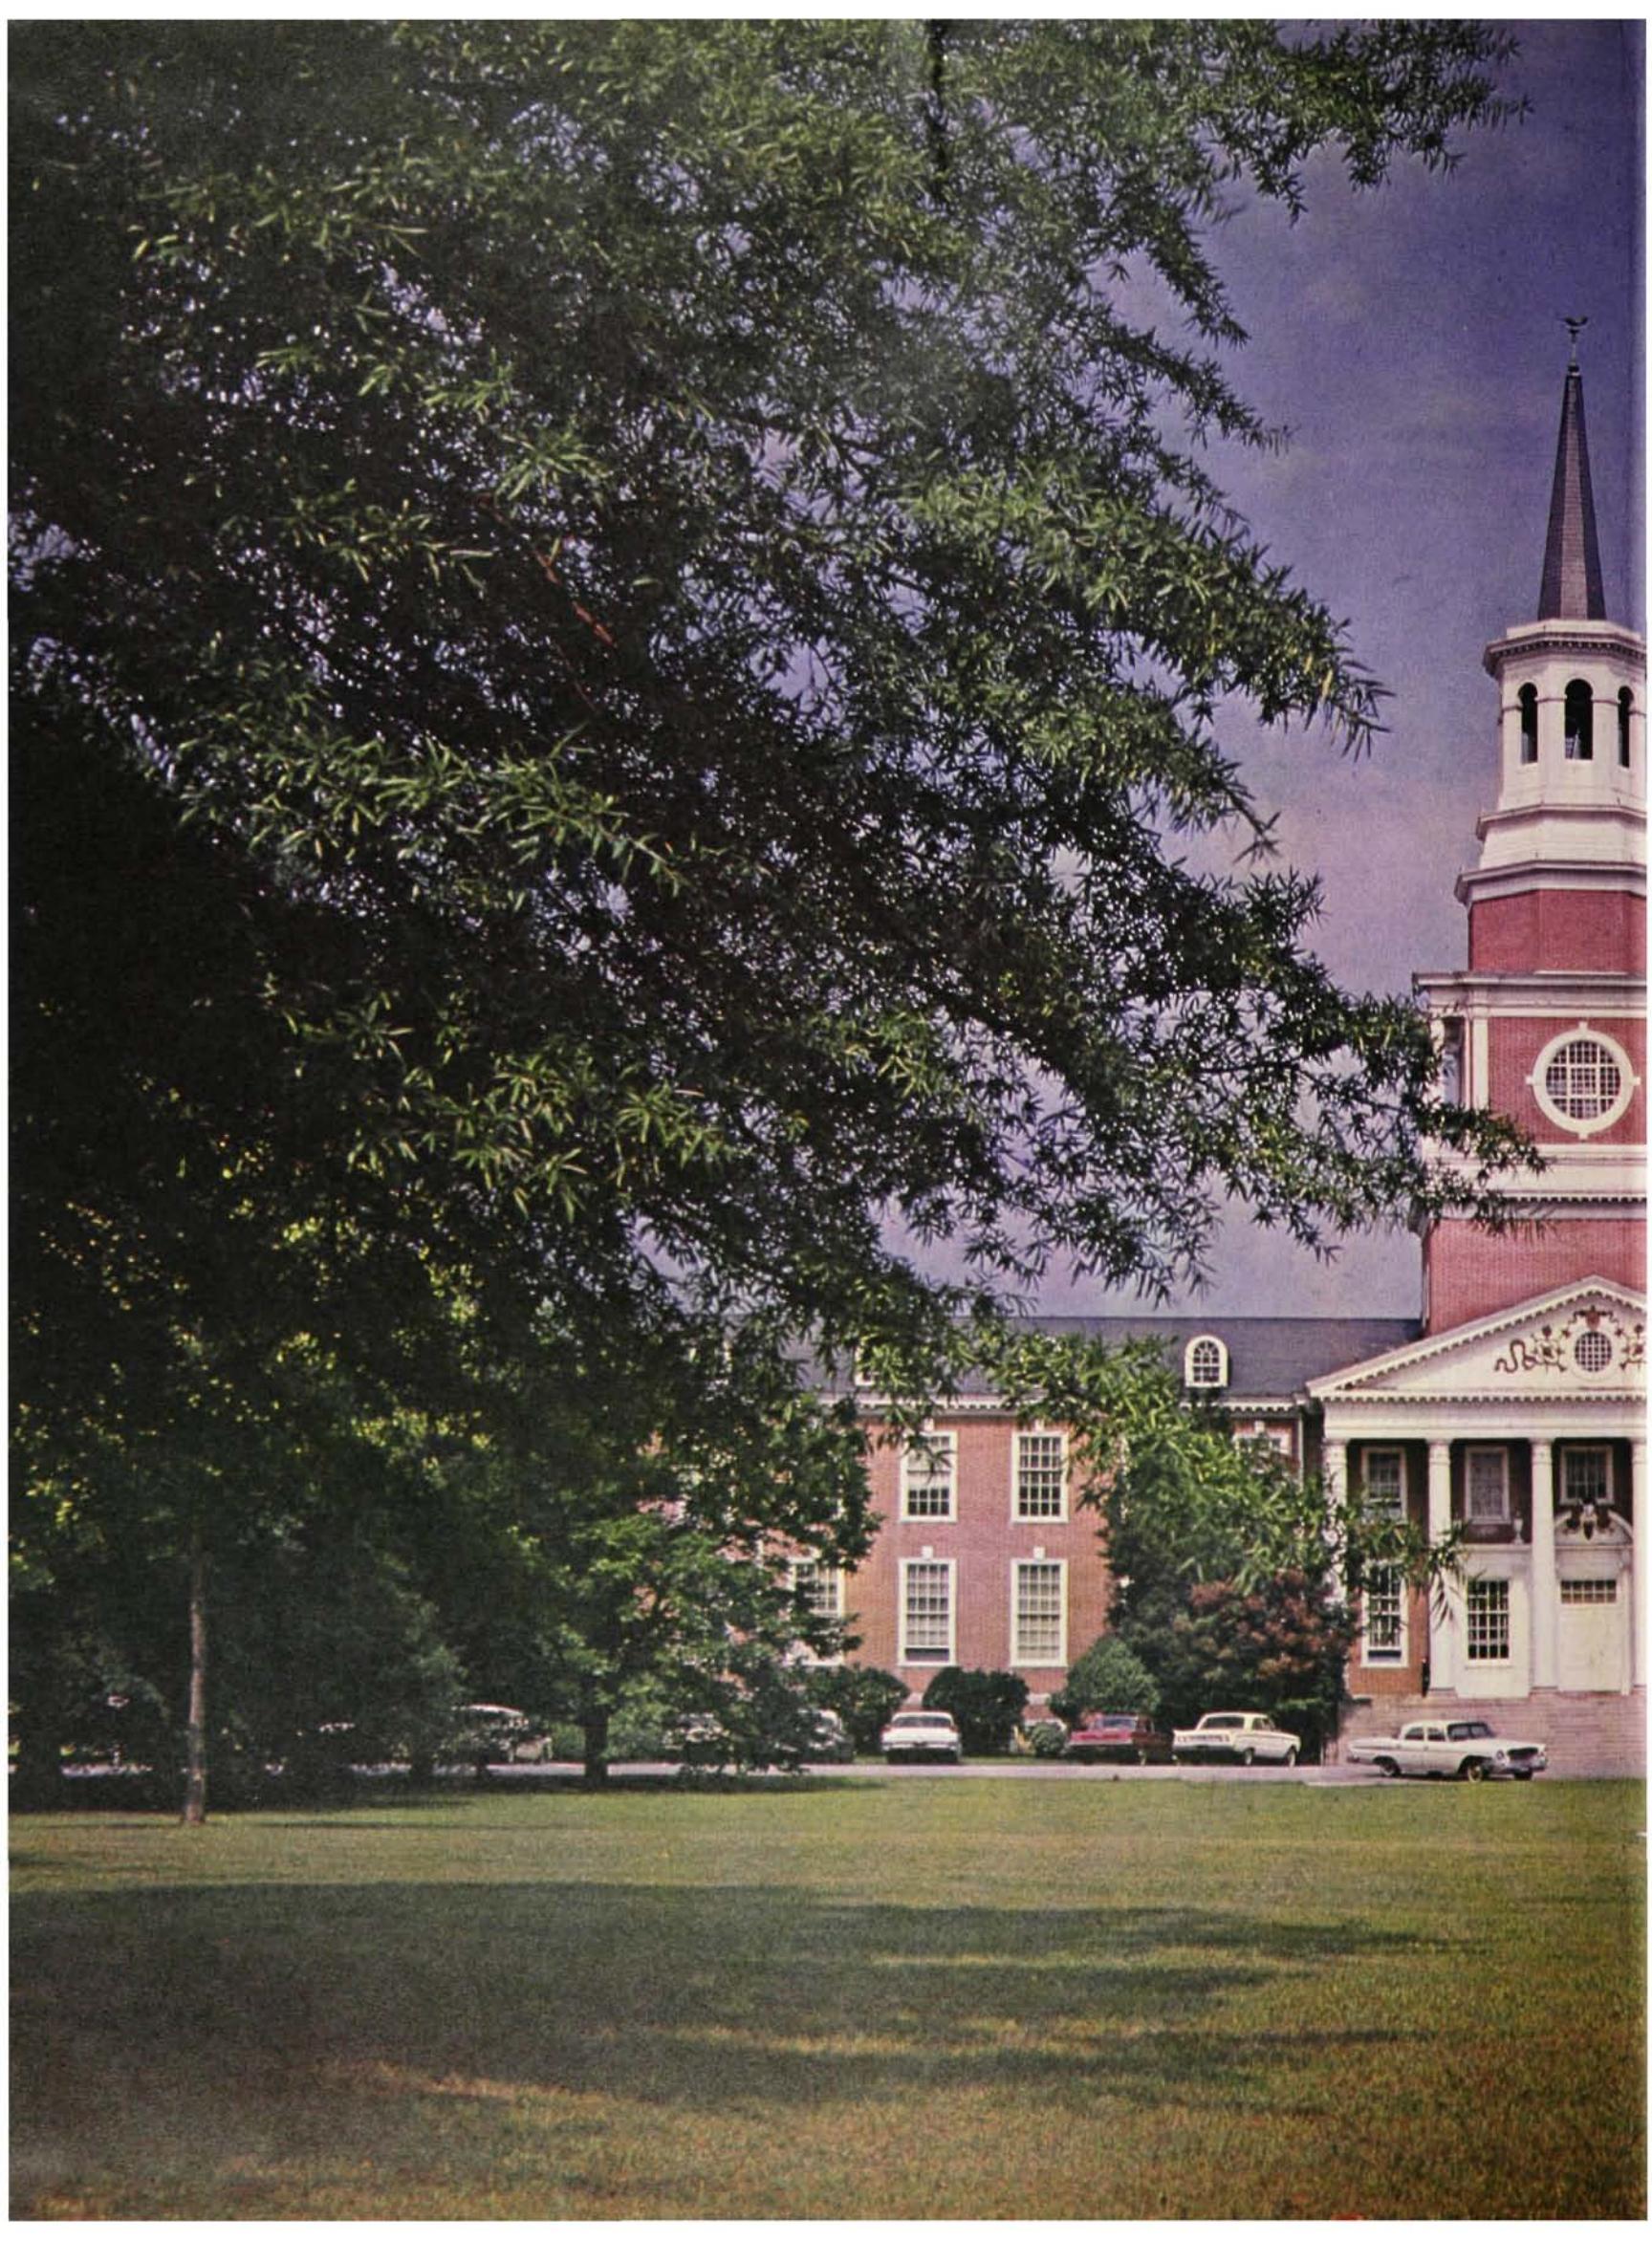

The staff hopes you, the students, enjoy your 1968 ZENITH. I would like to take this opportunity to thank my entire staff for a job excellently done. Working together they have put out the best yearbook High Point College has ever seen. Thus, may the students of High Point College take pride in the 1968 ZENITH and continue their steps forward in the learning process of life.
